

Instructions for Form FTB 3578

Pending Audit Tax Deposit Voucher for Limited Liability Companies (LLCs)

Important Information

In 2005, California Revenue and Taxation Code Section 19041.5 was amended to replace the "deposit in the nature of a cash bond" provisions to conform with Internal Revenue Code (IRC) Section 6603 "cash deposit" provisions.

Only use form FTB 3578, Pending Audit Tax Deposit Voucher for LLCs, to make a tax deposit payment for previously filed returns if the Limited Liability Companies (LLCs) anticipates owing an additional California fee or tax for its nonconsenting nonresident members due to a federal audit, a state audit, or other reasons.

Do not use this form to pay the LLC annual tax or for automatic extension. Instead, use current year form FTB 3522, LLC Tax Voucher, or form FTB 3537, Payment for Automatic Extension for LLCs.

General Information

The Franchise Tax Board (FTB) receives tax deposits from LLCs who previously filed and expect to pay a future tax liability for a specific taxable year. Normally, LLCs make tax deposits to stop the accrual of underpayment interest. The FTB will consider the LLC's payment as a tax deposit only if the LLC already filed a return for that taxable year. For more information, go to our website at ftb.ca.gov and search for FTB Notice 2005-6.

A Purpose

Use form FTB 3578 to make a tax deposit payment to satisfy a future tax liability for previously filed returns. See General Information C, When to File, for more information. Use this voucher with a check or money order payment only.

If there is a final balance due on the LLC's account, the FTB will first apply the payment to satisfy any final balance due for the same taxable year. Any remaining amount will be held as a tax deposit.
